Child Health Day

May 1 will be National Child Health Day. President Coolidge has proclaimed it and national officials, governors and mayors have added their endorsements.

A room of confining statistics about the necessity of Child Health Day has been poured out. Organizations have interested themselves in the celebration and many earnest-minded men and women in charge of children will really work to make it a success.

On the other hand, the day cannot be a success until every citizen of each community regards himself as a genuine part of the celebration. Here is the way for you, the citizen, to do it.

Try to bring forth just one thought, just one idea of your own, upon the subject. First, try to learn something about child health conditions; drop by the public library or write to one or more of the several agencies engaged in this line of work, and ask for books or pamphlets on the subject.

On Child Health Day, throw out the matter you have assembled, put two and two together and try to arrive at your own conclusion.

When you do you will light a bonfire that is really worth something to the child health movement. No man is really enthusiastic about the fact that he hears or the idea he gains from another.

He must discover his own fact—bring forth his own ideas. Then he is a real convert. If a few citizens will do this, it will be a real "day" for child health on May 1.

PRESIDENT IS ADAMANT ON HAUGEN BILL

Coolidge Refuses to Withdraw His Opposition to Farm Relief Measure

(By Universal Service) WASHINGTON, April 29.—Resisting all sorts of pressure, President Coolidge today refused to withdraw his opposition to the Haugen Bill, framed in the corn belt to relieve the suffering farmers of the West.

Numerous fires were built under the President in a vain effort to swerve him from his position. Chester Gray and Russell F. Bower of the American Farm Bureau Federation, following a White House conference, declared that the Haugen Bill is the only adequate measure to market the surplus crops, which hang like a millstone on the farmer's neck.

They were followed to the White House by Charles H. Hearst of the Iowa State Farm Bureau Federation and John Wallace, brother of the late secretary of agriculture, who, too, declared that the Haugen Bill is necessary to save thousands of farmers from following hundreds of thousands who have preceded them into the bankruptcy courts.

Their visits came after the flareup in Congress in which such old guardsmen as Senator Watson of Indiana joined the Western Farm bloc of insurgent senators in demanding "Progressive remedies" for the hard-hit farmers, and the declaration of former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who rejected the vice-presidential nomination at Cleveland, that surplus-crop marketing will alone save the farmers from disaster.

President Coolidge is ready to give his approval to the Trenchard Bill, which proposes to loan $100,000,000 of government funds to cooperative societies to dispose of as much of the surplus crop as $100,000,000 can take care of.

The Haugen Bill appropriates $375,000,000 sets up a government board to buy surplus crops and provides that in future years the farmers shall pay an equalization fee upon their crops to compensate the government for the cost of buying and selling the surplus.

President Coolidge declared in his Chicago speech that he was entirely willing to help cooperative transact their marketing business, but that he was strongly opposed to any "paternalistic" or "price-fixing" legislation.

Not only will the Haugen Bill fix prices, he believes, but will set up the government as a marketing agency which might ultimately stifle the cooperative associations now owned and managed by the farmers.

"The farmers have got to operate their farms," said Hearst. "They have got their overhead expenses and can't stop. But the fear is that all their efforts will bring them into further financial difficulties, if they are unable to market the surplus crop which this year's planting will again produce."

Insurgents of the West expect to capture new seats in both Senate and House unless the government provides aid for the farmers.

Brookhart is already making farm legislation a primary issue of his campaign against Senator Cummins. The outcome in Iowa is doubtful, Hearst said today. "But Senator Cummins might be helped if the administration passed a real farm-relief bill."

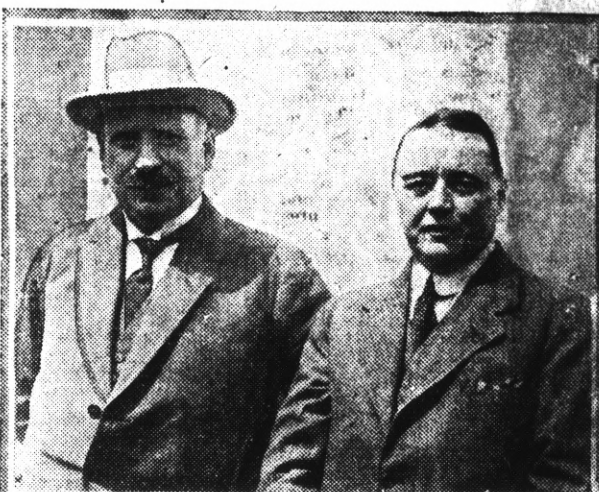

"The Trenchard Bill is all right as far as it goes," he said. "But it does not go to the bottom of the surplus-crop problem."

Reapportionment Is Urged by Mrs. Kahn in House

(By Universal Service) WASHINGTON, April 29.—Reapportionment of representation in Congress in accordance with the 1920 census which would give California three additional seats, was urged by Representative Florence R. Kahn, of California, in the House today.

Deploping the action of the House Census Committee in refusing to report legislation to reapportion the membership to conform to increase and shifts in population, Mrs. Kahn said:

"During the six years that have elapsed since the last census was taken in 1920, Congress has failed to obey the specific duty placed upon it by the constitution to make a new reapportionment under that census."

The Electoral college following the next Presidential election will be based upon a census made 18 years before. In case of a close Presidential election this might be a very serious matter, and might possibly be carried to court to decide the validity of the election."

"Carquinez" Is Name Selected For New Hotel

Board of Directors Select Name For Richmond's New Community Hotel

Richmond's Community Hotel will be known by the name of "Carquinez" according to a decision reached at a session of the board of directors of the hotel company this week.

The name according to members of the board has been selected because it is believed to be on that will add materially to the advertisement of the hotel and to make the name "stick" in the memory of those who visit here.

"In selecting this name," H. A. Johnston, secretary-treasurer of the hotel company stated last night, "we took every possible angle into consideration. It is a name we believe that will appeal to the average tourist. The fact that many of our visitors will have to pass over the Carquinez Bridge when it is completed will also aid in giving the hotel here a great deal of publicity."

Spanish names are readily accepted by tourists to this state and we believe that this will also assist in helping people to remember the name of Richmond's Community Hotel.

"As far as we are able to learn there is no other hotel in this section by that name," Johnston concluded in giving the reasons for selecting the name.

According to Johnston those who have paid up their stock subscriptions can now receive their stock certificates by calling at the office of the Hotel Company, Sixth street and Macdonald avenue. The stock certificates cannot be sent through the mails and it is necessary for those who are entitled to the certificates to call for them at the office.

A Friend from the South Seas

LONG before the South Seas became popularized through modern fiction and drama, their islands were making a valuable contribution to the American table. For the pineapple is grown in almost every tropical and semi-tropical country, and in Hawaii, in particular, where it is canned in great quantities and sent to the United States.

Very little raw pineapple is shipped, because, when fully ripe, it cannot be transported any great distance without damage, and when plucked before maturity, it lacks flavor. But doubtless the chief reason is the convenience of the canned product, since the raw pineapple is the hardest of all fruits to prepare for the table.

The food value of the pineapple lies in its vitamin, mineral and sugar content. Its refreshing flavor is incomparable. Physicians recommend it highly for the throat. For the table it is used as a fruit, as a salad (either shredded or sliced), in fritters, as a filling for pie, cake or sandwiches, in puddings, ice cream and sherbet. It can add a fine flavor to a slice of ham, when used as follows:

Sear quickly in frying-pan a thick slice of ham. Put into casserole and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Cover with juice from small can of sliced pineapple, and surround with halved slices of same. Bake in hot oven until brown. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with a little cold water and add various spices. Remove ham and add flour mixture to gravy. Return ham to dish, garnish with parsley and serve.

Put Your Money To Work

If ten years ago you had started depositing $25.00 a month in the bank, the accumulation today would total $3,000.00, without interest. If the same sum monthly in the same period had earned four per cent interest, compounded semi-annually, as paid by the Mercantile Trust Company of California on savings accounts, the total on deposit would be $3,686.92.

Saving money is a habit worth cultivating. It is the surest way of providing for future financial uncertainties. Why not start today?

LAUGH DAYS FEATURED AT CALIFORNIA

Today and tomorrow are laugh days at the California Theatre. Douglas MacLean will be seen in the role of chief merry-maker as the hero of a brand new Paramount farce-comedy with the popular title of "That's My Baby."

Picturegoers who love to exercise their smile muscles will have plenty of opportunity to do so while watching MacLean trying to woo a girl, though handicapped with a strange baby, who persists in calling him "Daddy."

Speed is the keynote of "That's My Baby." There isn't a dull moment in the entire production; in fact, the complications pile up so thick and fast that the laughs come in bunches. Besides the baby, who sticks to him like glue despite all his heroic and screamingly funny efforts to get rid of it, MacLean has many other trials to contend with. As luck would have it, the girl's father is an old business rival of his. In trying to win him over, MacLean only succeeds in antagonizing him all the more.

The fun reaches a high pitch of hilarity when MacLean presents the old man with a headache powder which proves to be poison. The life-and-death chase that follows brings the picture to an hysterical climax that mingles laughs and thrills at a rate of speed guaranteed to leave the audience breathless with surprise and merriment.

William Deane, directed "That's My Baby" from the scenario by Joseph Franklin Poland. The story is an original, especially created for MacLean by George J. Crone and Wade Bateler. Margaret Morris has the principal feminine role.

Other features on the same program include "The Flying Fool," an imperial comedy; "Felix Misses the Cue," a Felix the cat cartoon; an "International News"; and Larry Canelo at the organ.

Many Parents and Visitors at High School Watch Working of Classes and Departments

Approximately 200 adults visited the Richmond Union High school yesterday when the faculty held an open house at the school to the Educational Week program observed by the schools throughout the city. In the afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock the pupils of the cooking class under the supervision of Miss Catherine Ulrich served the guests with tea and cookies prepared by the members of the class. The adults visited the various classes where they saw in operation the methods now employed to instruct the pupils of the high school. A sewing display consisted of dresses and lamps, the work of Miss Ruth Stewart's pupils, was on exhibition. Last night, the various shops of the high school were placed in operation for the benefit of the visitors. Students in the Print shop, the machine shop and the wood turning shop gave an exhibition of their skill for the edification of their parents. B. X. Tucker, principal of the high school, was on hand to receive the guests and to explain the various interesting features of the school. The high school band furnished music for the occasion.

Educational Week in Richmond has been successful in its aim, to interest the parents in the school work and inform them of the methods employed. Those visiting the various schools of the city have praised the work of the teachers.

There's one prisoner less in Sing Sing.

Tom Meighan, a convict-for-a-day for scenes in his newest Paramount picture, "The Man Who Found Himself," a prison story written especially for the star by Booth Tarkington, recently "broke jail," hopped from a bridge to a fast-moving freight train which carried him to freedom while several hundred inmates of the college on the Hudson looked on with a half-hearted "they-do-it-in-the-movies" grin.

In "The Man Who Found Himself," which will be the feature at the Richmond Theatre today and tomorrow, as vice-president of his father's bank in a small Hudson River town, is suspected of having taken a considerable amount of bank funds for his own use. A rival banker puts the suspicion to rest; result: a two years' vacation "up the river" for the star.

By frustrating an attack on one of the guards, Tom is made trustee, and he takes advantage of his new position to make his escape when he hears that "the girl back home" is to marry the man who sent him to jail through trickery. So out he went, while prisoners peering from the barred windows high above the courtyard wondered just how far they'd really get if they tried the same thing.

Virginia Valli is Meighan's leading lady in the production which was adapted for the screen by Tom Geraghty. Frank Morgan, prominent figure on the Broadway stage, is Tom's rival in business and love. Others in the cast include John Harrington, Norman Trevor, Charles Stevenson, Julia Hoyt and Lynn Fontanne.

Other features on the same program include "Neighbors," Buster Keaton comedy; "Felix Weathers the Weather," a Felix the cat cartoon.

Guard Placed at Construction of El Cerrito School

To prevent outbreaks between American plan and union carpenters, a guard has been placed at the El Cerrito school in El Cerrito by the sheriff's office. Following the report to authorities that the union men threatened to duck non-union carpenters in the bay, the authorities decided to take precautionary measures by placing a guard on the job where construction of additions to the school building is progressing.

Chief of Police Dan Cox who investigated the trouble yesterday, stated that while he was there no threatening union men appeared. Deputy Sheriff J. M. Joseph stated that a group of strikers appeared but that no violence was shown.

This is the first trouble in the Richmond district since the strike of the union carpenters opposed to the employment of non-union men on jobs started April 1.

Dr. Wuesthoff has since returned and opened an office on the second floor of the building at 1002 Macdonald avenue. Mrs. Wuesthoff is spending a few days with her husband here but will return south shortly to remain with their three children until the end of the present school term when the family will all gather in Richmond and establish their home.

Sixteen Baseball Generals

ROBERT A. HEREFORD
(By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, April 29.—With the 1926 baseball campaign now well under way, the critical eye of the fan turns speculatively upon the sixteen generals who are leading their teams in battle, and upon whose ability depends to such a great extent the pennant chances of their charges—the managers.

And Johnny Bleacherite and Hon. H. Grandstand Patron, whose attention has been entirely taken up with such engrossing matters as Babe Ruth's Waistline and the Pirate casualty list, note with surprise and interesting fact as they glance over the roster of the team leaders.

Seven of 1926's sixteen managers are player managers.

And what a brilliant array of talent this manager list presents.

Ty Cobb, the famous monarch of the Tiger fair; Roger Hornsby, the King of present day sluggers, whose Cardinals are the bane of the National League Pitchers' existence; Eddie Collins, the veteran leader of the Chicago White Sox; George Sisler, baseball's gentleman player who treats opposing moundsmen with such rudeness; and who is teaching similar manners to his St. Louis Browns; youthful Al Alexander, who led the grizzled veterans of Washington to two American League pennants; and one World Championship; Tris Speaker and his Cleveland Indians, and finally Dave Bancroft, who stands up so bravely under the fire of whistling liners at short, and who had courage enough to take over the leadership of the Boston Braves.

The bally manager Bucky Harris, who added youth's fire to the experience of his venerable Senators and made Washington the country's Baseball Capital as well as its political center proved the worth of the player manager. It was Harris' genius which finally succeeded in breaking the New York

MILLER UNDER KNIFE

Joseph Miller of Richmond will undergo another operation on his jaw at the University hospital in San Francisco. He has already undergone several operations made necessary by an infection in his jaw.

Neither New York team was led by a player manager. Harris, though not so brilliant as Hornsby or Cobb, is an excellent leader and found, like famous generals of history, that he could get the best out of his men by going under fire with them.

St. Louis has gone solidly for the militant manager and it looks as though Hornsby and Sisler may succeed in bringing a pennant to Baseball's Western frontier city where the bench leaders have found it an impossible task.

The Tigers, under Cobb's crafty managership and led in the field and at the plate by the great player are never without a threat. And certainly the Braves have clearly shown the effects of Bancroft's steady leadership.

The Standard Sanitary Ironworkers baseball team of the Three C League will go up against the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. team on Sunday afternoon, 2:30 p.m., at the First street park. The Pittsburgh team is one of the finest in the league but the local team are confident that they will take their scalps.

Chronic Catarrh Relieved

Elmhurst, April 3, 1926.

During all my life I had suffered from Catarrh, more or less. A few months ago it became so bad that my eyes ached terribly and I could not hear well in either ear. Although I tried many treatments and doctors, I got no benefit whatever. I was told that I must have an operation for adenoids and tonsils. Fortunately, however, instead, I came to the Fong Wan Herb Co. for treatment. After two weeks all my complaints were gone. I have nowhere else found remedies comparable with the Fong Wan Herbs.

HUNDREDS OF MEN PRESSED INTO SERVICE IN EFFORT TO CONTROL FLOOD AT PORTAGE, WIS.

When a section of the Government lock at the Wisconsin end of the Portage Canal collapsed, April 17, 5,000 bags of cement were used to make a barrier. It is believed that seepage now going on will cause fresh breaks and the Wisconsin river, if not held back, will pour through the Portage Canal into the Fox river. Government engineers are on the scene and troops are being asked out to assist.

R.R. Commission Renders Decision On Power Lines

The following letter received by Coroner Charles F. Donnelly from H. G. Mathewson, secretary of the state railroad commission in regard to the separation of power wires is of interest to the community:

"Dear Sir:

The Great Western Power company reports that the wire on which Mr. Hunt was working is supposed to have come in contact with a live wire above it. The normal vertical separation of the wires at the place of the accident was approximately two feet. This separation complied with all laws and regulations in force at the time the line was constructed, but has since been recognized as insufficient.

General Order No. 64, of the Railroad Commission requires that in lines built after July 1, 1922, the vertical clearance between wires such as were involved in this accident shall be four feet.

This order applied to new lines and did not require the rebuilding of all existing lines, so the line in question cannot be considered as constituting a violation of the order. The construction of new lines in compliance with the order will gradually eliminate the opportunity for accidents such as this.

Yours very truly,
Railroad commission of the State of California.
By H. G. Mathewson, secretary."

Germany Believed to Be Looking for New Colony in Morocco

(By Universal Service)
BERLIN, April 29.—What is believed to be the first German step toward the acquisition of a new colonial empire in Africa is taken in negotiations between the German government and Mannesmann Brothers which are nearing conclusion.

The government is lending the brothers 8,000,000 marks in return for which they turn over to the government their famous mines and possession in Morocco as security. These possessions are the only remains of the vast domain which the foremost German colonizers held before the war and which lead to the historic demonstration by the Cruiser Panther before Agadir in 1911 nearly leading to a French-German war at that time.

France Funds War Debt to This Nation

ences between Mellon and the foreign ambassador.

France is granted a moratorium on all interest payments during the first five years, with interest charges averaging 1.78 per cent over the 62-year period.

In substance, the understanding represents a fifty-fifty compromise between M. Berenger's original offer of about $6,000,000,000 and the commission's initial demand for $7,500,000,000.

The United States recorded the following gains above the final offer made last fall by Joseph Caillaux just prior to the collapse of the negotiations at that time:

First, the reduction in the period of payment from 68 years as offered by M. Caillaux to 62 years, in accordance with the terms of the other debt settlement.

Second, the increase in the aggregate payments from $6,220,000,000 to approximately $8,848,000,000.

Third, the complete elimination of the safeguard clause insisted upon by M. Caillaux.

The third point, it was emphasized officially at the treasury tonight, was gained despite the determination of France to include some proviso which would permit the re-opening of the debt question.

Official emphasis also was laid on the statement that there is no collateral agreement, secret or otherwise, in any way affecting the formal settlement reached today.

France gained a reduction of approximately $500,000,000 in the aggregate payments. The total annuities during the five year period of partial moratorium were reduced $49,000,000 from $200,000,000, the final Caillaux offer, to $150,000,000.

Against this reduction of $49,000,000, the United States prevailed upon France to begin payments at $30,000,000, instead of at $25,000,000 as offered by M. Berenger following the collapse of the franc, and to increase them to a maximum of $35,000,000 at the fifth year.

The negotiations today came to a sudden climax following a suspension of negotiations for seventy-two hours while M. Berenger communicated with Premier Briand and Finance Minister Peret in Paris.

Until noon, Secretary Mellon had no word from M. Berenger, and the general expectation was that the negotiations would be over for another day.

A few minutes later, the ambassador notified Mellon of the receipt of his instructions, and a meeting of the American commission was hurriedly called for 2:30 to consider the French reply.

The commission met with Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of State Kellogg.

retary of Commerce Hoover, both absent, although each had been informed as to the contents of the French reply. The answer of the two cabinet members was interpreted as indicating that France's answer was satisfactory and that the agreement would be signed.

After a session of one hour, the commission adjourned to the White House for a conference with President Coolidge. The chief executive was lying down, and the commissioners waited twenty minutes in the cabinet room before he appeared.

The conference with the President continued for forty minutes, then came the break-up. Mellon hurried to the treasury to sign the formal agreement; while Senator Smoot of Utah, who will lead the fight for ratification in Congress, announced that an agreement had been reached and gave a brief summary of its character.

"It was the best we could get," was his description.

At the treasury, while cameras clicked, Mellon and M. Berenger signed their name to the formal document. Then the debt commission issued a formal statement reviewing the negotiations and detailing the terms.

The scientists say "NO!" . . . still the person who comes to OUR MARKETS for his fish, certainly does display exceedingly good sense . . . because we sell only FRESH fish and sea foods.
